La forma más común de metadata es la explícita

Ej. Keywords, clasificaciones, categorías, tesauros....

Metadata implícita o indirecta:

Extraída de información no creada específicamente para clasificar

Google es mejor que nosotros, ignorando nuestra metadata
explícita y usando la suya propia implícita

¿Existe una categorización perfecta?

Áreas de navegación, menús y directorios son insuficientes

¿Ha muerto la navegación?

Centrarse en lo que podemos hacer mejor que Google

Nuestras ventajas (lo que no sabe Google):

- Análisis de las estadísticas de servidor
- Comportamiento y acciones de los usuarios
- Modelo mental de los usuarios

Hybrid CSS Dropdowns

By Eric Shepherd

Yup. It's yet another CSS dropdown article -- but one that resolves many problems associated with common dropdown methods and degrades beautifully. Hybrid CSS dropdowns allow access to all pages, keep the user aware of where she is within the site, and are clean and light to boot. It's a tasty little vitamin pill, so quit sighing and try it.

Economic and Epidemiological Modelling of Full-Length Antihemophilic Factor (Recombinant), Plasma/Albumin-Free Method, in Previously Treated Patients with Hemophilia A : Comparison with B-Domain Deleted rFVIII, and Value of Potential Viral Transmission Reduction due to Plasma/Albumin-Free Status.

OBJECTIVES: To the extent that current recombinant clotting factor concentrates contain even trace amounts of human or animal protein, there is continuing potential for transmission of nonenveloped viruses, including hepatitis A, and parvovirus, and the theoretical potential for transmission of relatively unknown agents, such as prions (Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease, or its variant). Full-length antihemophilic factor (recombinant) plasma/albumin-free method (rAHF-PFM: Advate((R))) represents a novel
